

Screen Actors Guild Awards Best

Reese Witherspoon, in an Yves St. Laurent dress and Fred Leighton earrings, was named best lead actress for her role as June Carter Cash in Walk the Line. Reese, who first played June in a fourth-grade play, said, "I never thought I'd ever be an actor." Hubby Ryan Phillippe also won an award — for Best Performance by a Cast in a Motion Picture for Crash.

Ellen DeGeneres, who celebrated her 48th birthday three days before the awards, kept Florida de Rossi, her girlfriend of just over a year, laughing all night.

Crash stars Sandra Bullock, Thandie Newton, Matt Dillon, Jennifer Esposito and Bahar Soomekh scored an upset victory for Best Performance by a Cast in a Motion Picture. "I'm still a little surprised that I was part of the group that won," Sandra said. "It's pretty amazing."
